SubProject:Delhi– PRJ

Child Name – Kunal Sagar

About child:

Kunal Sagar (CH ID-709294) is a bright and talented boy who became a sponsored child at CFCA in 2012 when he was only 5 years old. Now, he is growing into a hardworking and determined young boy with big dreams for his future. He is sincere in his studies and always tries to give his best in every task.

From a young age, Kunal has dreamed of joining the army and serving the nation. At present, he is an NCC cadet, which has helped him learn discipline, confidence, and teamwork. Through NCC, he is preparing himself to achieve his goal of becoming an army officer in the future. He works hard in his studies and actively participates in college and community activities to improve his skills and knowledge.

About his Education:

Kunal Sagar is a sincere and hardworking student. He completed his schooling in the year 2024 and started his graduation in the same year. Currently, he is pursuing a Bachelor of Arts (B.A.). His main subjects are Political Science, Ancient History, and Geography. He has a keen interest in learning about society, government, and the history of our country. Along with his studies, Kunal is also actively involved in NCC activities. Due to his NCC training, sometimes he needs to skip college, but he makes sure to compensate for it and studies effectively.

His journey:

Kunal Sagar's journey in education and NCC has been full of hard work, discipline, and determination. He is working very hard for his studies and to complete his dream. Kunal also regularly participates in NCC camps along with other cadets. He has attended many NCC training camps in different places to improve his skills and knowledge. He went to Meerut for an Army Attachment Camp, where he got the opportunity to experience army life closely. During the camp, he learned many important activities such as shooting, air rifle shooting, parade training, discipline, and teamwork. He also experienced paragliding, which increased his confidence and courage.

Kunal always takes his NCC training seriously and actively participates in every activity. In many NCC events and camps, he was given the responsibility of a commander because of his leadership qualities and disciplined nature. He often leads the march past and guides other cadets during programs and parades. His confidence, dedication, and ability to lead others make him stand out among the cadets.

Through continuous practice, regular training, and hard work, Kunal is improving himself every day. He balances his studies and NCC activities with full dedication. His journey in NCC has taught him discipline, responsibility, leadership, and love for the nation. All these experiences are helping him move closer to his dream of joining the army and serving the country in the future.

About His Family condition:

Kunal Sagar's father works as a private taxi driver and is the main earning member of the family. His mother is a housewife who takes care of the home and supports her children in every possible way. He also has a younger brother who is currently studying in class 10th. The financial condition of the family is limited, but his parents always encourage their children to continue their education and work hard for a better future.

The support provided by CFCA has been very helpful for Kunal and his family. It has supported his education and also encouraged him to continue his NCC activities and training without financial difficulties. His family is proud of his dedication towards studies and his dream of joining the army.

Major Achievements/Accomplishments:

Kunal Sagar has achieved many milestones through his hard work, discipline, and dedication in both education and NCC activities. Since joining NCC, he has always shown great interest in learning new skills and taking part in every activity with confidence and enthusiasm. During his school years, while studying in class 10th, Kunal successfully earned the NCC 'A' Certificate, which marked the beginning of his journey as a dedicated cadet. Continuing his hard work and regular training, he achieved the NCC 'B' Certificate in 2025. In 2026, he proudly received the prestigious NCC 'C' Certificate, which is considered one of the highest achievements for an NCC cadet. These certificates reflect his discipline, leadership qualities, commitment, and passion for joining the army in the future.

Apart from academics and certificates, Kunal has actively participated in many NCC camps, training programs, and inter-group competitions. He took part in firing competitions and won several prizes for his excellent performance and focus. He also received recognition for being "Best in Drill" because of his outstanding parade skills, discipline, and leadership during march past activities.

One of the proud moments of his NCC journey was during an Army Attachment Camp, where he practised shooting and air rifle firing. His performance and dedication impressed the camp authorities, and he received the signature and appreciation of Camp Commandant Colonel Brijesh Pathania at his shooting position. This moment became a memorable achievement for him and motivated him to work even harder towards his dream. Kunal always takes responsibility seriously and often plays the role of commander during NCC events and parades. He confidently leads march past activities and motivates other cadets to perform well. Through continuous practice, discipline, and determination, he has built strong leadership qualities and self-confidence.

His achievements in NCC and his dedication towards his goals show his strong desire to serve the nation. With the support of his family and CFCA, Kunal continues to move forward with confidence and hopes to achieve his dream of joining the army in the future.
